

ABSTRACT

TITLE

A survey on practices related to the seasonal storage of clothing. Problems and the possible solutions applied by house wives.

OBJECTIVES

- To know the practices applied by house wives to store out of season clothing.
- To find out the problems and possible solutions regarding limited storage space.

METHODOLOGY

This descriptive type of research was conducted in order to get the views of housewives regarding methods applied to store out of season clothing and problems and possible solution regarding limited storage space. Questionnaires were used for this purpose. These questionnaires were distributed among the students of R.L.A.K. Govt. College of Home Economics residing in apartments in different areas of Karachi. Actual respondents of the questionnaire were the mothers who were asked by the students to fill up the questionnaire.

RESULT

The results show that most of the families select these apartments to fulfill the needs of their family. For storage housewives have many facilities in different rooms of the apartment. They also used small storage devices and most of the housewives were satisfied with their available storage facilities.